AUTISM OPEN DAY

9 September 2018

TAPPING THEIR TALENTS

Autism Open Day brings together leading researchers from Curtin University and Telethon Kids Institute.

Join us to meet the researchers and learn more about the latest autism research. There will be discussions on programs that support people with autism, focusing on 'tapping their talents'. Parents of autistic children, as well as individuals with autism, will also share their stories and experiences.

PROGRAM

An exhibition area will have stalls with information on key areas such as:

- Pathway planning for school leavers with autism
- Social skills training for teenagers with autism
- Emotion recognition training computer games
- Peer mentoring program for university students with autism
- Autism Academy for Software Quality Assurance
- Getting around the community
- National guideline for autism assessment and diagnosis
- Autism Register
